Equity Compensation Plans for Non-Public Companies:

Get a Free Volatility Calculator Spreadsheet or Sample Equity Compensation Reports

As the year-end approaches, are you still using spreadsheets to track your stock plans and report equity compensation? Do your auditors ever hint it might be time to make a change?

If so, you're not alone. We polled over 200 attendees at our recent webinar, "Equity Compensation Plans for Non-Public Companies," and found that the majority are still using spreadsheets for equity compensation reporting ... despite the fact that most have only a basic knowledge of how to get their valuation variables and have little knowledge of how to "true up" their equity compensation expense.

Download a recorded version of the webinar to learn how to calculate four of the key FAS 123R variables -- volatility, interest rate, expected term, and forfeiture rate -- and see how easy it can be to pull information from public web sites and make your stock plan valuation and equity compensation reporting faster, easier, and more accurate.
